

HORNER APPEALS FOR FARM, HOME
OWNERS OF STATE*Asks Holders Of Mortgages To Use Utmost Forbearance

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—An appeal to all holders of mortgages on Illinois real estate and personal property "to use the utmost forbearance in foreclosing on mortgages on farms, homes and chattels, when the farm or home owner is in such financial circumstances that he is actually unable to pay" was made public by Governor Henry Horner here this morning.

"This is the Governor's statement said, 'is proposed as temporary relief only and until conditions change for the better.'"

Text of the appeal was as follows:

"Agriculture, one of the basic industries of Illinois, has suffered more, perhaps, than any other industry in our state. Prices for farm products have fallen to such low levels that our farmers, in many instances, have a hard struggle to maintain their economic independence.

"Until the farmers receive an adequate return from the products of their labor, there can be no fair measure of prosperity for the other toilers and other industries of our state.

Wage Earners Hit
"Probably as hard hit as the farmers, by the present economic maladjustment, are the wage earners. In the years of plenty, many of them purchased homes. Now they find themselves hard pressed to pay their taxes, and unable to pay off their mortgages. This is also true of many of the men and women of the professions and the skilled trades.

"Thus, many of our citizens are faced to face with the prospect of losing their farms and their homes and suffering a still further decrease in their earning capacity. Unless some remedial action is taken immediately, many of these worthy citizens will become public charges and add to the already heavy burdens of caring for the unemployed and unfortunate.

Neither the Governor nor the General Assembly of Illinois has the power to impair or invalidate contracts.

Asks Forbearance
"I therefore appeal, in this emergency, to all holders of mortgages on Illinois real estate and personal property, whether residents of Illinois or elsewhere, whether corporations or individuals, to use the utmost forbearance in foreclosing on mortgages upon farms, homes and chattels, when the farm or home owner is in such desperate financial circumstances that he is actually unable to pay. This is proposed as temporary relief only, and until conditions change for the better.

"I urge that this voluntary suspension of foreclosures should be instituted immediately by the large companies holding mortgages on Illinois property, when such action in each case is found to be warranted after a thorough investigation. Undoubtedly, the individual holders of mortgages then would follow their lead.

"It is to be hoped that it will not be necessary for such suspensions of foreclosures to extend for a period of many months inasmuch as members of the Congress of the United States and of the General Assembly of Illinois now are considering measures which may be helpful in the present emergency.

Cites Other States
"I am encouraged to urge this temporary and emergency measure because in other states like suggestions have met with a ready response by holders of mortgages. Large companies holding mortgages in several other states are cooperating with the chief executives of those states, and I am hoping that these companies, and others, will extend the same cooperation to Illinois in this emergency. In those states many of the large holders of mortgages have stated that it will not be their practice to foreclose for non-payment of principal, except in cases where an investigation discloses the individual borrower is not entitled to such consideration. They also have announced a willingness to renew mortgages upon terms consistent with fair play to all concerned.

"Those farmers and home owners who have the ability to meet their obligations, and who have an appreciation of their duties to their fellow citizens, will not be encouraged to default or withhold payments by the operation of this plan. Nothing could be more destructive to the intent of my proposal than this. That would be taking an unfair advantage of mortgage holders and discourage aid to necessitous debtors. Good citizenship will prompt any borrower who in fact is able to pay his mortgage to do so. Any non-payment, where the money can be made, will injure those persons who are entitled to the relief I have suggested, and will make more difficult the obtaining in the future, of loans on property. Many persons of small means have invested their modest savings in mortgages and now are almost, if not entirely dependent upon repayment as a means of livelihood. Justice to them of course, must not be denied.

"What has been done in other states toward relieving the distress of farm and home owners has set an excellent standard of cooperation for the companies and individuals holding mortgages on Illinois property.

"The time has come when every

GEO. VICKERY HELD UP LAST
NIGHT ON ROAD*Garageman Is Relieved
Of $30 By Armed Highwayman

George Vickery, 814 Chicago avenue, was held up and robbed last night about 8 o'clock while going to his home, about $30 being taken from his pockets by a lone armed bandit. The robbery took place about a block from his home. He had left his garage and while walking home, a small sedan stopped, one of the occupants inquiring the road to Amboy.

Vickery informed them that they were on the right road and one of the men stepped out of the car, walked over to where he was standing, pressing an automatic pistol against his chest and commanding "shell out." After relieving him of his money, the holdup told Vickery to face the west and to make no outcry, then backed to the car. With the lights out on the car, the strangers drove south toward Amboy. Vickery stated this morning that there were two men in the car while the third held him up. After giving Vickery his parting orders, the bandit threatened to turn a machine gun on him in the event that he disobeyed the commands, Vickery said this morning.

BENTON SHERIFF WOUNDED IN GUN
FIGHT THIS A. M.*Bandits Flee After Shooting Officer
In The Foot

Benton, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Sheriff Browning Robinson was slightly wounded early today in an exchange of shots with bandits. He suffered a flesh wound through the left foot.

The bandits are presumed to be the three men who earlier in the night robbed a pool hall at West Frankfort of between $600 and $1,000.

The Sheriff and Night Patrolman James Mundell were scouting for the bandits when an automobile passed them at a high rate of speed. The Sheriff followed and the bandit car whirled around on a vacant lot on the eastern outskirts of Benton. The Sheriff said he left his own car and advanced toward the men when the firing began and he was wounded. The bandits fled.

At the hospital it was said the Sheriff's wound was not serious and that he would be able to walk in a few days.

The bandits are believed to be the same who have been staging many robberies in southern Illinois recently.

It takes ten tons of black coal turned into steam to make one horsepower, according to estimates by steam engineers.

IOWA MOTORIST CHARGED WITH
MANSLAUGHTER*A Requisition Is Issued
For W. H. Merritt Of Anamosa, Ia.

W. H. Merritt, a farmer residing near Anamosa, Iowa, is to be returned to Dixon on a charge of manslaughter, it was stated today, following the issuance of extradition papers which were signed by Governor Henry Horner yesterday at Springfield and forwarded to the Governor of Iowa at Des Moines. The indictment charging manslaughter was returned by the January Lee County grand jury, but was withheld awaiting Merritt's arrest. A report received here last night indicated that Merritt was under arrest and being held at Anamosa, Iowa.

State's Attorney Edward Jones telephoned the Sheriff at Anamosa County seat of Jones county, Iowa, this morning and learned that Merritt had not been taken in custody. The Sheriff stated that he had been unable to locate the farmer after several visits to his home. He indicated, however, that Merritt's attorney at Anamosa had promised to produce his client at Des Moines within a few days, where he would oppose the extradition.

Result Of Accident
Merritt's indictment on a manslaughter charge resulted from the death of August 29, 1932 of Lawrence Piper, aged 11 years, who was struck by a car said to have been driven by the Iowa near his home on the Lincoln Highway in Palmyra township the injuries sustained causing the death of the youth. Merritt is said to have stopped and assisted in removing the boy to the home of his parents, but he failed to report the accident to the state police, the sheriff or local police. It was reported that he gave his name and address to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piper, parents of the youth, following the accident, but did not appear at the inquest.

Representatives of an insurance company in which Merritt was said to have held a policy covering his automobile, paid several visits to Dixon investigating the accident, but no settlement had been made and State's Attorney Jones presented the case to the January grand jury who in turn returned the manslaughter indictment.

Budgetary Control Board Is Proposed

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Creation of budgetary control commission of three persons to supervise the expenditures of all local governmental agencies in Chicago may be recommended to the General Assembly in bills now under preparation.

The principle of budgetary control by a small group of officials as outlined by Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, has been approved by representatives of the school board, county and forest preserves and Lincoln and West Park boards.

At a meeting presided over by Mayor Cermak yesterday Professor Merriam said that a control commission composed of the mayor, the president of the county board and a third member to be selected by the three could cut government expenses greatly by eliminating duplications and through quantity purchasing of supplies.

Seek Motive For Wanderwell Murder

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Further testimony to supplement that of Aloha Wanderwell, attractive young widow, will be adduced Monday by the state in its efforts to prove that her globe-trotting husband, "Captain" Walter Wanderwell, was slain by William James (Curley) Guy, 23, handsome Welsh soldier of fortune.

Through Mrs. Wanderwell the state yesterday sought to offer a motive for which Guy, charged with murder, might have killed the Polish-born adventurer last Dec. 5 aboard Wanderwell's yacht "Carmel." She testified Guy led a "revolt" of members of a Wanderwell South American tour in 1931 and that in Los Angeles last July he tried forcibly to collect money from her husband in connection with that tour.

Government Finds Untalkative Women

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Found: A couple of women who won't talk. It took the Federal government a whole week to find them.

Prohibition agents finally spotted their car on a suburban highway last night, and blocking their way in front and behind with two automobiles managed to capture them. In the car were two five gallon cans of alcohol and the two women, who gave the names of Mrs. Jean Bowen, 26, of Burlington, Wis., and Mrs. Emily Patterson, 31, widow, who would only say she "used to live in West Virginia."

The agents accused them of transporting alcohol from Aurora to West Chicago.

The ladies would give away no secrets. Refusing explanations, they were placed under $1,000 and $500 bond.

VIEW THREE IN
OTTAWA PRISON*Trio Arrested Thursday At Earlville
After Robbery

Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber Sheriff Fred Richardson and several victims of recent holdups in Dixon, went to Ottawa this morning to view three youthful suspects who are in custody in the LaSalle county jail. The trio, Robert Faris, Gerald Nelson and Harry Schaffer, claim DeKalb as their home and were arrested early yesterday morning at Earlville while attempting to force an entrance into a lumber company's office. Reports from the LaSalle county sheriff's office late yesterday was to the effect that they had confessed a series of robberies in this locality, one of which was the theft of a small amount of change from the Archer service station on state highway, route 70 at Capton Thursday night. They are also suspected of the robbery of the lumber company office at Capton about ten days ago, which is being investigated by Sheriff Richardson today.

Victims of recent oil station holdups in Dixon accompanied the officers to Ottawa this morning in an attempt to identify some of the men as being those who have been active in this locality during the past month. When arrested early yesterday morning, the trio were said to have been using an automobile belonging to DeForest Hitchcock, assistant coach of the Rochelle high school, which was said to have been taken Thursday night at Rochelle.

Chief Van Bibber and Sheriff Richardson returned home at noon.

Admit Theft
The trio confessed having stolen Edward Collins car in this city two weeks ago this evening and abandoning it in DeKalb to Sheriff Richardson they admitted having robbed the offices of the Alexander Lumber Company about ten days ago and the Archer service station Thursday night. Both places are in Capton. They were also said to have admitted taking the automobile of Edward Lawrence, Jr., of Sterling, twice within a month, and on one occasion drove through Walton, where they succeeded in having their gas tank filled, speeding out of the village without paying for the gas. Harry Schaffer, supposed leader of the trio, was said to have been a former inmate of the state reformatory at Pontiac.

itt's Mission

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The government today undertook an investigation of William C. Bullitt's activities in foreign capitals, which have been alleged in some quarters to relate to war debt settlements.

The move followed immediately on receipt at the State Department of a letter from Senator Robinson (R. Ind.) formally requesting such action.

In the Senate Robinson had directed attention to reports of Bullitt being enroute to Vienna after being reported in London, Paris and Berlin, conferring as a "secret emissary" of someone in this country. He suggested prosecution of the one-time State Department attaché and former newspaperman under the Logan Act, passed in 1799, which prohibits American citizens from conducting unauthorized discussions with foreign governments.

The legal division of the State Department got busy with messages abroad and results of the inquiry were being awaited at the Capitol. Prominent Democrats there have denied reports that Bullitt was representing President-elect Roosevelt abroad.

TO CONSULT CONGRESS

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 4.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt will consult with committees of the Senate and House during the forthcoming British debt negotiations to keep them advised of progress.

Mr. Roosevelt's intention to keep contact with Capitol Hill was disclosed just before he sailed for a ten-day's fishing cruise.

He still regards the actual negotiation of the debt settlements an executive function and will go ahead on his own in the talks with the foreign representatives.

Congress must ratify any agreement that comes out of the March conference and Mr. Roosevelt intends to discuss the progress of the conversations with some kind of congressional committee.

Just what nature of committee will be set up by Congress for the purpose has not been disclosed.

Vrooman Endorses Farm Allotment

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A former Democratic Assistant Secretary of Agriculture told a Senate committee today that the domestic allotment farm bill passed by the House was sound and seemed to have enough political backing to become a law.

Carl Vrooman of Bloomington, Ill., who served in the Agriculture Department under President Wilson, testified in support of the bill after Thomas Y. Wickham, Chairman of the Grain Committee on National Affairs, had opposed it. Wickham asserted it would fail to raise farm prices.

Vrooman observed that the bill "seems to have the approval of the 'incoming administration' and of a majority of the farm organizations."

"As a temporary emergency measure, the basic principle of the bill is sound economically," he said.

SALARY CUT FOR CONGRESS? NOT
BY THEIR VOTES*House Defeats A Motion
To Reduce Members'
Pay To $7,500

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The House turned a deaf ear today, to attempts to trim the pay of members in a big way, while the Senate went back to the $19,000-$30 for air mail contract subsidies which it recently threw out of the Treasury Postoffice appropriation bill.

Representative Whittington (D. Miss.) was ruled out of order on an amendment to give the government service including Congress, an eleven per cent pay cut on top of the existing reductions. He tried then to cut the pay of Representatives to $7,500 from the present $9,000, drew a barrage of debate and was voted down, 172 to 37.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, reopened the argument with criticism of Postmaster General Brown's attitude and renewed demands for full investigation to determine what the proper appropriation for next year is. The Senate also took up a proposal to cut deeply into ocean mail contracts, but defeated it, 36 to 32.

No New P. O. Sites
Without a record vote the Senate adopted an amendment to the Treasury Postoffice bill to prohibit the use of any part of the $50,000,000 for public buildings to go toward acquisition of further sites.

The amendment was offered by Senator Dickinson (R. Iowa) who said it was time the public building program was curtailed, and this was the only way to do it. He said $83,000,000 was still on hand for acquiring land and the amendment would affect only the $50,000,000 fund for next fiscal year.

A Ways and Means subcommittee of the House rejected all pending bills to build the tariff walls higher against depreciated foreign currency effects. A vote on considering one of these bills, however, will be had by the House on February 13, because of a petition signed by 150 members which entitles them to ask its consideration.

Talk Inflation
More advocates of silver money appeared before the House Coinage committee and the members discussed the possibilities of putting some measure to a vote just to develop national sentiment. They admitted no such plan could be passed this session.

Senator Norris, chairman of the Judiciary committee, announced the case of David S. Barry, Sergeant-at-Arms suspended for voting in an article that only a few members of Congress sold their votes for money, would be studied by the committee Monday, with Barry given a hearing.

More testimony for and against the domestic allotment farm bill was heard in the Senate Agriculture committee and the hearings were expected to close Monday.

Chicago Gun-Toter Gets Year In Jail

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Murray Humphreys, successor to "Scarface" Al Capone as Chicago's No. 1 "public enemy," was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction and pay a $300 fine today upon his recent conviction on a charge of gun-toting.

Humphreys was seized several weeks ago by detectives who raided an expensive office suite in a loop skyscraper in a search for labor racketeers. Half a dozen other known gangsters were caught in the same net.

Humphreys had a revolver on his person, detectives testified during the 20-minute presentation of the state's case. He was convicted in near-record time by a jury in Municipal Court.

Judge Harold O. O'Connell refused to grant a new trial but allowed a 60-day stay of sentence pending an appeal. The sentence was the maximum amount.

Attorney Everett Jennings said he would take the appeal direct to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Of Securities Act

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Nine warrants charging violation of the Illinois Securities Act were issued here yesterday against Barney Blockyoun and his son Udell of Belleville, after nine miners had charged they bought $1,200 worth of stock in the Lower Vein Coal Company and then discovered the corporation had been dissolved by the Attorney General of Illinois last October.

The complainants alleged they worked in the company's mines three months, without receiving any pay or dividends on their investment.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 4.—(AP)—One farmer was near death in a Sioux City, Iowa, hospital and at least four others were suffering from gunshot wounds as debt-laden agriculturalists continued to look to legislatures and Congress for relief.

R. D. Markell, 68, of Elk Point, S. D., was seriously wounded and his two sons, Harry and Keith, were shot when they attempted to run a blockade of 100 pickets near Sioux City.

Nile Cochran, 39, of Moline, Iowa, said by officials to have been one of the pickets, was being held for questioning after being treated for gunshot wounds. At least one other unidentified farmer was known to have been shot.

The shooting occurred when the Markells attempted to transport 1,000 gallons of milk into Sioux City in defiance to a price agreement following the milk strike in northwestern Iowa last fall.

Three guns were taken from the Markells following the shooting officials said, and a revolver was found by officers on the seat of their truck.

Hear Ambassador
On Monday

London, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Great Britain's debt policy, explained in detail in the recent talks by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, was expected to remain virtually unchanged after the cabinet is informed Monday of President-elect Roosevelt's views.

The five cabinet members charged with arranging Great Britain's bid for drastic reduction or cancellation of the debt are out of town for the week-end and will return Monday to hear Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay report on his conversations with Mr. Roosevelt.

Unless wholly unexpected news is brought by Sir Ronald, it was indicated in high quarters today that the main features of the British proposal would remain intact. The cabinet members awaiting Sir Ronald's report are Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Chamberlain, Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, Stanley Baldwin, President of the Council, a Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade.

The plan to have Sir Ronald launch a campaign to convince American citizens that they will benefit by a debt reduction or cancellation was not explained. There was no information on how he will go about doing it, but it was learned from high authorities that his activities will begin immediately after he goes back.

Russian People

Newtown Square, Pa., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Parlor Bolsheviks, in the opinion of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy simply "don't understand" when they refer to Soviet Russia as a paradise for workers.

On a run-down Pennsylvania farm which she occupies rent-free, the Countess lives in striking contrast to the Russian estate on which her father, Count Leo Tolstoy, did much of his writing.

Sandwiched between hours on the lecture platform and others spent in writing, she finds time for many simple farm tasks—milking, churning, feeding chickens and even chopping wood.

"This," she said, "is so different from Russia today. In Russia we could not raise food to eat or sell. The government would take it, and then we would not give it that much. And the worst of it all is that everyone believes the working class in Russia is going up and getting better."

"I won't cry if your capitalist has it worse. He has had his day. But your workers, if they believe that, I will cry. It is your parlor Bolsheviks, they do not understand. Russia has drifted away from Socialism, even from Bolshevism. Russian workers are in worse slavery now than ever before."

Class Spent Eve At Plowman Home

The Bible class of the Brethren church had a lovely time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Plowman Friday night. The Plowmans are good entertainers and make everyone feel welcome and at home and this coupled with the fine spirit of the class caused a cheerful atmosphere from the very beginning. For every one was in a jolly mood and it is needless to say that a "good time" was enjoyed by everyone present. The class is being taught by Chas. Boyd who is an efficient teacher and is leading the class in a very commendable way. Thirty were present. Rev. H. B. Martin led the class in a short period of worship after which some things were discussed that might give more attention to new members and those who do not attend regularly. Mrs. T. H. McWethly led the class in their entertainment and all enjoyed her unique way which keeps everyone interested. The refreshments were then served and after a short social time the happy party retired to their homes after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Plowman for their kindness in opening their home and entertaining every one so royally.

E. L. C. E. OF GRACE CHURCH HAD MEETING

The E. L. C. E. of the Grace Evangelical church held its regular monthly business and social meeting in the church parlors on Thursday evening. The meeting opened by singing "Ring the Bells of Heaven." After the business a very interesting program was presented. Ethel Noble gave the life of Frances Scott Key, the writer of the "Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Darrell Palmer read from the book "In His Steps." Audrey Stewart and Pauline Pierce took charge of the games which were enjoyed by all. The hostesses for

Hooovers Start Moving as New Tenant Inspects White House

While truckmen (at left) were busy at a rear entrance of the White House, moving away the first of the Hoovers' belongings preparatory to their final departure before March 4, the next First Lady—Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt—is shown (at right) as she arrived by a front gate to survey the Executive Mansion over which she will preside as mistress. Declining the proffered use of a White House limousine, she walked a half-mile from her hotel to inspect her future home at the invitation of Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

That's what his teacher meant. And he does need to get out more. He does read too much. I'm going to have him operated on. Then I'm going to get him skates and a sled. I knew it all the time I've just been wanting people to put me on the back and say he was all right."

Children Need Quiet for Study

The telephone rang. It was for Alan.

"I can't go to a movie," he answered Bob Mason's query. "I've got to study."

More coaxing, more refusing, and Alan hung up.

He got his books off the hall table and started upstairs. "Can't you study down here and save light?" called his father.

"I can't study with all that racket going on, and the radio."

"Children, shut off that radio and keep still. Come on down. I'll keep the kids quiet. Go and get your jig-saw puzzle children, and settle down. Now nobody's to say a word. Alan's going to study."

Alan snapped up a card table and placed himself under the floor lamp. His mother came in, picked up the paper and looked around. Alan had her chair and her lamp.

Heavy Silence

"Say, dear," she whispered, thinking that would bother him less. "Let me put this low lamp on your table, will you, and I'll move this one over by the window."

Alan put down his compass; he was working an original proposition in geometry the teacher had thought up that day, an especially hard one, and frowned.

"Alan, don't frown at your mother. No one in this house must ever do that." Then he listened to a smart talk about how they were doing everything they could to keep him in school, dress him, feed him, and so on.

In ten minutes he was settled again and back at work with his compass. He had to pick up all the threads over again.

The children were very good—they did the best they could to keep quiet but their very whispering, their whole sotto voce attitude seemed like thunder to the boy trying to concentrate. His father turned his paper painfully slow to keep down noise. His mother stifled a sneeze up her nose and went out side to cough.

Even the dog gave little muffled barks in his sleep as though chasing his rabbit under orders of silence.

In fact the atmosphere was heavy with insidious silence.

"Alan was doing his lessons."

Needs Study Room

He felt the weight of it, a roomful of people directing thought waves of silence toward him. Every once in a while there was an interruption, too. Mr. Gerber came on an errand. He was retained in the hall, because the hushed syllables came through the portieres. Alan, you see, is studying. And the telephone was quickly seized and stangled. Aunt May could call tomorrow as mother couldn't talk. Alan was studying.

He threw down his pencil, got up and picked up his hat.

"Why, Alan?"

"I'm going to Bob's. I'll get up early and study."

"We're all doing the best we can, son," said his father. "You'd never do to work in a newspaper office with all the rattle."

"Well—nobody's thinking about you there. I feel smothered."

Children have to have a place to study—a place to themselves. One more light upstairs and three instead of four downstairs would be better. So few people understand. Peace and quiet, and above all, solitude, make the best setting for the student.

Health Greatest Care For Mothers

"I think," said Miss Williams. Ned's teacher, "that the boy is not well. He hasn't a very good color and seems tired. Have you had him to a doctor, Mrs. Miller?"

Mrs. Miller bridled instantly. "His health is my greatest care," Miss Williams. I came to see about his lessons. I attend to his health myself."

Miss Williams apologized.

"I am sure you do. I just thought seeing him every day as I do, that he may have lost interest in his school work because he doesn't feel just right."

Mrs. Miller stopped at her sister's on the way home.

"I've been to the school to see about Neddie. His teacher tried to make me think he was sick."

"If I were you, Laura, I'd get him outside more. He's always moping over a book when I go in Books and movies, that's what he lives on."

"I guess I know what is good for the boy," remarked her sister, tartly. "You women who haven't any children always know so much more than us mothers. He can't stay outdoors like most children. He has a cold most of the time, no matter how I bundle him up."

Mrs. Miller, unsmoothed, went on her way. But comfort was not waiting around the corner where she directed her steps. Mrs. Oliver was to bake a cake for the sale and Mrs. Miller wanted it changed to nut bread.

"Where's Ned?" asked Ted Oliver, his skates over his arm as he answered the bell.

"I guess he's at home."

"He ought to go skating. It is grand down at the lake."

"He has such weak ankles, I didn't get him skates. Hello, Mary."

The nut bread off her mind, Mrs. Miller came back to her favorite subject. Nobody understood her Ned.

Children Are Types

"I've been reading about children," Mary Oliver said thoughtfully. "Ned's different from Ted. Ned is the dreamer type. Likes stories about other people rather than do it himself. Ted is too much the other way—'extravert,' the book calls it. Doesn't care a snap about books, headstrong, full of life. Selfish really and not too particular about other people's feelings."

Mrs. Miller caught only the implication about her own boy. "Why is everybody against my poor Ned. I wonder. I think I have made a pretty good job of him. Only he doesn't like school. Miss Williams hints that I don't look after him properly. Laura tells me he ought to be out more. And here you tell me he's a moper."

"Don't get depressed," smiled her hostess. "I get it too. But it doesn't worry me. In fact, I'm open to suggestion. I didn't like it when mother insisted Ted's eyes were weak. I shuddered at glasses. But finally I took him down and did he need them! The boy was almost blind. He's so much better now."

Mrs. Miller was silent for a moment. Then she pulled up her collar with a jerk. "You're right, everyone of you!" she said crisply, "and I've been a goose. Neddie has adenoids and I know it."

Quaint Quilt Patterns In Telegraph Wonder Package

Two more attractive quilt patterns are shown from the Dixon Evening Telegraph Wonder Package. This marvelous package contains eight quilt patterns in all; four for piece work and four for patch work or applique.

These are the patterns that use up all those scraps and pieces in the mending bag, for if you do not wish to make all blocks alike, each may have an individual scheme, and fortunately in each "Goose Tracks" block there are four different kinds of print, while in the "four pointed star" there are just two. Either of these patterns are very economical to make, fascinating to work on and especially effective in appearance.

Plain Directions

There are borders for each design suggested and with the plain instructions there should be no trouble at all in creating a beautiful quilt which could be used for a bed spread.

If you have an Early American room you could look far before you would find a more attractive spread and by making the drape and table skirt of a small patterned print you will have a most charming scheme. The Wonder Package contains over 800 transfer patterns. However the quilt patterns are not to be transferred. This would be impossible; there are so many different kinds of material to be used that one could not expect to stamp the design.

Use of Quilt Pattern

Cut the large quilt block in half, leaving one-half intact, and cutting out the separate pieces of the other half to use as patterns for the prints and plain material. The half section that has not been cut up will serve as a guide in putting the pieces together correctly.

If you are one of the lucky ones that have already received their Wonder Package you no doubt have had a great deal of pleasure planning what may be done with the dozens of different designs. If you have not secured the package, do not hesitate to send for one or call for it. If you desire to have it mailed the price is $1.00, but if you wish to call for it the price is only 88c. The Dixon Telegraph Wonder Package may be called for at the Dixon Evening Telegraph office.

The Dixon Evening Telegraph

Enclosed please find $1.00 for which I wish you would send me the Dixon Evening Telegraph Wonder Package of over 800 transfer patterns.

THE TRAGEDY OF HILL 60.

The great German attack near Hill 60, in Flanders, in the spring 1915 is marked down in military histories as one of the important events of the war; for it was then that poison gas was first used and that modern chemical warfare really came into being.

Great cylinders of chlorine, previously stored along the German lines, were opened. The greenish-yellow gas, driven by a favorite wind, drifted into the allied trenches. Between Hill 60 and Ypres the allied line—temporarily, at least—simply ceased to exist. Canadians, Frenchmen and a detachment of old British regulars were taken by surprise, victims of a weapon against which they had no defense. Had the Germans been alert to exploit the surprise to the full, Ypres would probably have fallen.

All of this, of course, is pretty well known. But an odd little footnote is being written to it now; it is being charged that the French and British high commands had ample warning of the pending gas attack and did nothing whatever to get ready for it.

A German war veteran was tried recently at Leipzig and sentenced to a long prison term for having betrayed the secret to the French. This man was captured by a French patrol two weeks before the attack, and at his trial it was charged that he gave his captors full details of the project.

Furthermore, two weeks before that the French command issued a bulletin telling about the proposed gas attack, the information having come from other German prisoners. The British command was notified, and several reconnaissances were undertaken to try to find out about it; but the British official war history remarks that in general "the warning seems to have been not only disregarded but forgotten."

So the attack, when it came, found the defenders utterly unprepared. The line was breached, and a good many young men died horribly—some of them making pathetic last-minute attempts to improvise gas masks out of their puttees.

Just why the warnings were disregarded is something that may never be learned. But the incident is a tragic example of responsibility that rests on an army's command in wartime.

MRS. COOLIDGE'S PENSION.

Apparently Congress will not take any action at this session on the proposal to pay a $5000 annual pension to the widow of Calvin Coolidge.

It has become more or less customary in recent years for such a pension to be paid to the widow of a president. Whether the hitch in the present case comes from the legislative jam which is causing so many bills to die, or whether it comes from the current demand for economy, is not quite clear. One report says that many congressmen feel that this pension is not necessary because Mr. Coolidge left his widow a fairly sizable estate.

Luckily, Mrs. Coolidge is not in want, and the delay will not cause her any hardship. But as a matter of principle it might be well to put the pension enactment through anyway. This country is rich enough, in bad times as in good times, to provide for the widows of its presidents. It might be a good thing to make a settled policy of doing it in all cases, without delay.

A HARD LUCK CHAMPION.

In some ways the hard luck championship of the year seems to have been won by Leo F. Chartrand of Seattle.

This chap found an old coffee pot full of bills under a stump. Examining the money, he found that it totaled $4240. There was only one hitch. The bills all turned out to be counterfeit.

To be sure, he is no worse off than he was before. He hasn't lost anything. But the cruel jar that his nerves got when he learned that his windfall was worthless must have been excruciating.

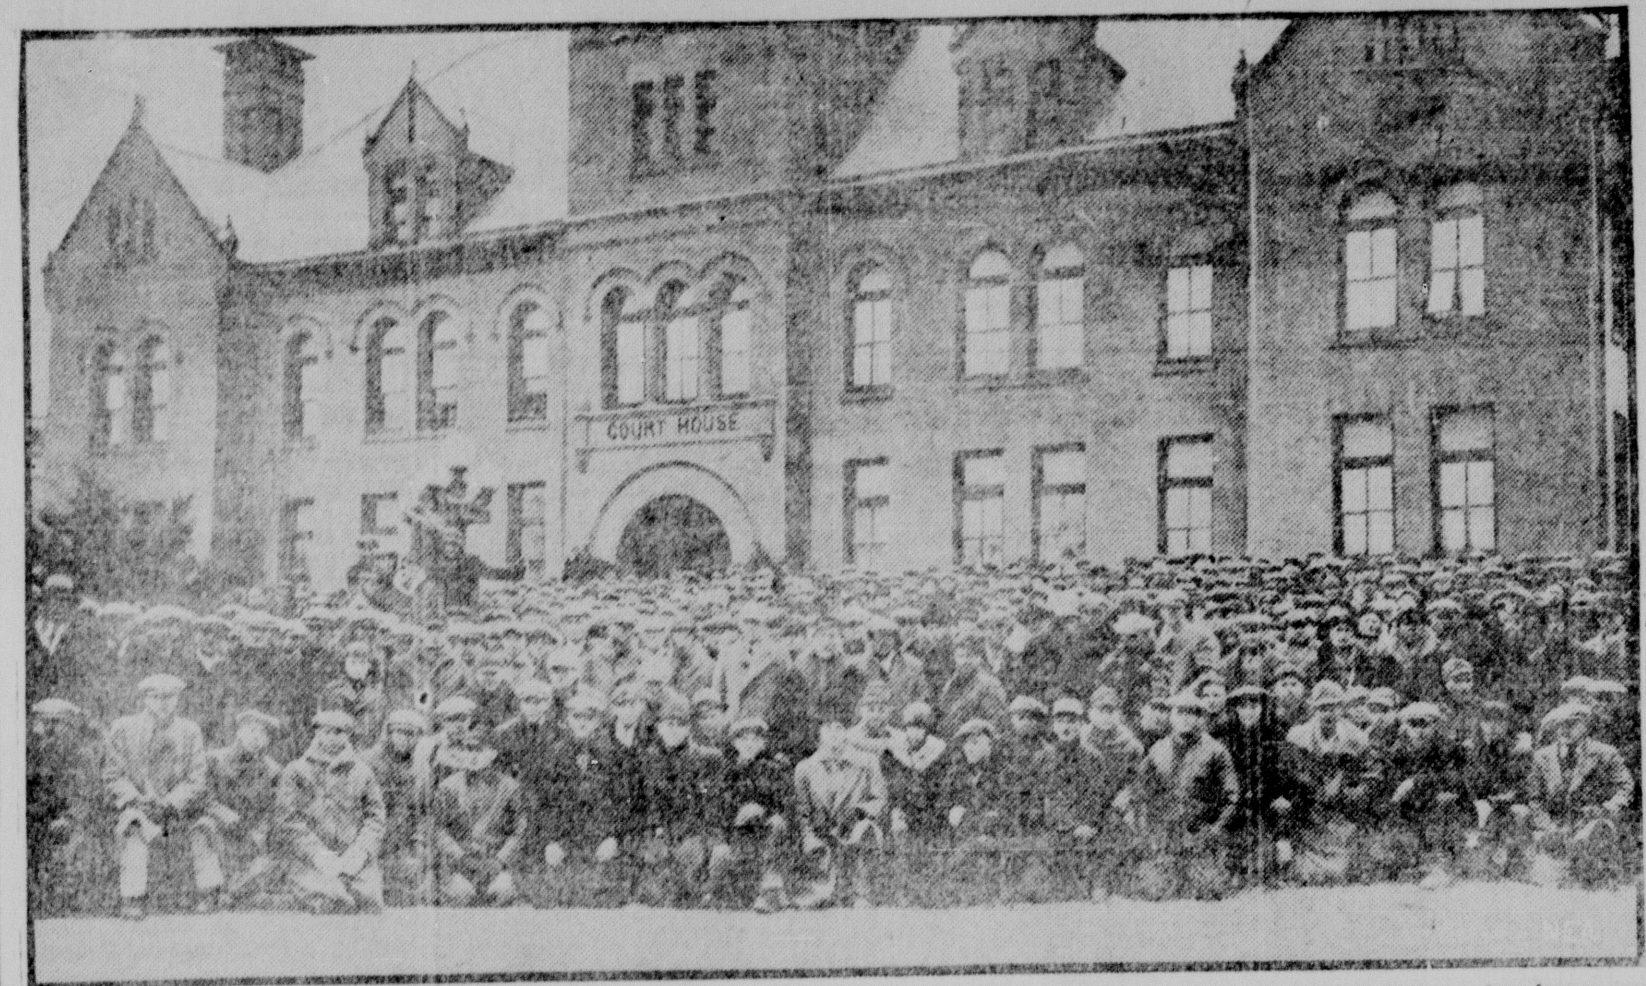

We all dream of finding money. Few things that could happen to us could elate us as suddenly and thoroughly. To rise to that peak of elation and then to discover that it didn't mean anything—well, Mr. Chartrand has our sympathy.

The technocrats seem untroubled by the thought that the bray of a donkey might employ more transversion of units than a song by Lucretia Bori, or that the explosion of a dynamite factory might use up more thermal units than the production of a technocracy report.—Prof. Horrell Hart, of Bryn Mawr, member of President Hoover's committee on social trends.

Civilization? "Chiselization" would be a better term. I'd like to get back to the tundra.—Father Bernard Hubbard, Jesuit priest of Santa Clara University, Alaska explorer.

It's laughable to blame prohibition for our present state. Why, if we had open saloons we'd be in the blood of revolution at this moment.—Mrs. F. I. Johnson, head of the Women's National Union for Political Action.

MINNESOTA FARMER "ARMY" INVADES COURT HOUSE, BLOCKS FORECLOSURE SALES FOR NEIGHBORS

An army of farmers, estimated at 3000, swarmed into and around the court house at Madison, Minn., to halt mortgage foreclosure proceedings against three neighbors' farms. The small army, a part of which is shown above, constituted the largest organized movement thus far in the "foreclosure revolt" that has been sweeping the farm belt. The farmers marched into the sheriff's office, preventing the foreclosure sales by the sheer physical fact that there was no room for bidders. The sales were indefinitely postponed.

COUSIN OF LEE COUNTY SHERIFF STATES HIS MIND

Mayor Of Orion Down In Henry County Is Against Holiday

There will be no business holiday at Orion, Ill.

If you don't believe it, ask Mayor J. B. Richardson.

Mayor Richardson, a cousin of Sheriff Fred A. Richardson of this city and well known in the vicinity of Ashton, views the epidemic of so-called "holidays" with what might be termed deep disgust, and has drafted the following official proclamation:

A Proclamation
Whereas, a number of the honorable mayors of our neighboring cities and villages have found it necessary to proclaim a Merchants Holiday, (whatever that is), and to order the closing of all banks and business houses for a period of two, three or four weeks (and some perhaps indefinitely) and Whereas, we have studied the situation most carefully and have failed to get through our honorable dome what it's all about or what caused these honorable Mayors to issue said proclamations, unless they were subject to attacks of indigestion, biliousness or cold feet, and Whereas, the citizens of Orion and community are contented and happy, in the knowledge that our bank is one of the strongest, safest and best banks to be found in any similar sized city in the state of Illinois, or in the United States (and that's taking in "some" territory), and Whereas, our citizens positively refuse to become excited, frightened or stampeded into doing anything that their better judgment would tell them not to do, and

Whereas, our bankers and our merchants are too busy chasing the "almighty dollar" to even consider vacation (especially at this season of the year), and Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Orion, I do hereby proclaim to the cock-eyed world, that there will be no merchants holiday in Orion. No sir-ee. Our bank and business houses will be open for business six days out of every week, (and on Sundays, if absolutely necessary), for our merchants know full well that if they were to lock up their places of business and take a vacation, and Old Man Dollar should happen to come along and try to get in, and found the door locked, he is not going to crawl through the key-hole and jump into the till or cash register and lie there for two, three or four weeks waiting for the merchant to get back from his vacation. No sir, it isn't the natural thing for him to do. If Old Man Dollar should pay a visit to Orion, he's going to find a reception committee headed by the banker, and composed of every business man in town, waiting to give him a royal reception and present him with the key to the city. And if Old Man Dollar should find him under down Main Street, he will find every merchant waiting to give him the glad hand; they would even open their door for him, and if necessary, they would reach out and grab him by the neck and yank him inside. No sir, there will be NO business holiday in this man's town. Our folks are going to keep jogging right along in the same old way, with a song in their hearts and a smile on their lips; with faith in God, our banker, and each other; living each day in the hope that the price of hogs will go up and the Democrats will fulfill their campaign promises to bring beer back by Christmas (but they neglected to say which Christmas).

Given under my hand and seal this 24th day of January, in the 10th year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-three at the City Hall (try and find it), in the city of Orion, county of Henry, and State of Illinois.

J. B. Richardson, Mayor.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

COUNTY GOVERNMENT

To the Editor:

Dixon Evening Telegraph:
In looking through your newspaper of the evening of February first, I came upon a short item on the front page which called attention to the taxpayers to read an editorial of your page four.

In turning to that page, I found some figures which were very interesting to me, but they did not satisfy me in the argument they had set out to prove. After turning to my geography and looking at these counties referred to as having the commission form of road supervision instead of the township style, I began to change my mind. The story is a different one when you consider all sides of the question. Probably what seems to be a virtue with centralized County road patrol in those Counties would not work here.

There are lots of things to consider. We must first consider the density of population which determines the amount of wear and tear on our roads. Then we must consider the heavy loads that we carry through good old Illinois. Heavy loads are very hard on bridges and roads.

To be fair, we must also consider the number of bridges and culverts that are used and the conditions of our roads as compared with those maintained by the commission form of County road supervision. The question is, do they keep their roads as well as we keep ours and do they use as good materials as we use?

Let's have a square deal on this matter. Let's consider the employment that the needy men of our township have received only recently through their road commissioners. Such money—and it is well earned—is spent back in the community from where the tax is levied. This helps every business in the community as well as the man who gets the work.

Suppose, further that you have this road work under the proposed central organization and that a citizen wants a wash-out re-paired or wants a load of stone or wants a culvert repaired. How much "red tape" does he have to go through to get it? Your local commissioner will tend to these matters at once because he is dealing directly with the men and women who put him in his office. The County official, on the other hand, will be hard to reach and slow to act.

I could go on and on, but I think if the people understand this, they won't want to give up their road commissioners and take a chance on more large-scale graft in politics. That, I might say, is one of the additional dangers of centralized road service—namely graft in the spending of public money for purchases.

Yours truly,

JOE GRENNAN,

Amboy, Ill.

Savings Accounts Are Still Paying Interest . . .

Today, millions of people who hold stock in various enterprises, find that their income has dwindled or disappeared, as a result of reduction or omission of dividends.

On the other hand, the 48,000,000 savings depositors in more than 18,000 banks of the country today, are in a most favorable position by comparison. Their money is where it is available.

These savings depositors realize that that they are well situated in this respect and they realize that their deposits are not idle dollars but dollars that are working for both themselves and their community. They have the satisfaction of knowing that they have a good investment and they are doing their share in helping to keep the wheels of business moving.

THIRTEEN BIDS FOR INSURANCE COMPANY FILED

Federal Court Plans Hearing For Firms Which File Bids

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Thirteen bids for control of the Illinois Life Insurance Company were in the hands of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today and three members of the Stevens family, which controlled the company, had provided a total of $75,000 in bonds to gain their release on fraud charges as result of its failure.

Gen. Abel Davis, receiver for the $510,000,000 company which listed 75,000 policy holders, presented the bids in Federal Court yesterday as James W. Stevens, 80-year-old chairman, and his two sons, Raymond W. and Ernest J. Stevens, president and vice president, respectively, provided bond of $25,000 each before Chief Justice John F. Prystalski of the Criminal Court.

In presenting the bids Davis said a variety of offers had been made. Some provided for continuation of the company, without additional capital, while seven asked reinsurance of the policy holders, he said.

Among the bidders were the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance Company, Monmouth, Ill.; The Life & Casualty Company of Chicago; The Old Line Life Insurance Company of America, Milwaukee, Wis.; and The Central Life Assurance Company of Des Moines, Ia.

Judge Wilkerson said each bidder would be given an opportunity to be heard before a selection was made.

When Duncy flopped down to the ground, the Tynymites all gathered 'round and shouted, "Well, you lost your match, but even so, 'twas fun."

"The two cubs leaped and made you fall. You didn't have a chance at all. I guess we never will know just how well you might have done."

"Say, you are pretty fair to me," said Duncy. "I can plainly see that it was quite a funny sight to see me take a spill."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Coppy. "That's the stuff. You know when you have had enough. Now give the bears some credit. They were winners, fair and square."

"We didn't think that they were strong, but that's where all of us were wrong. If I had been in your place, I'd have had an awful scare."

Then Duncy jumped up to his feet and said, "I wish I had a treat for both the cubs. They've earned it, but what is there I can give?"

"Well, son, I know of something real," the hunter said. "I'll fix a meal. Bring both the cubs and follow me. We'll go to where I live."

When all the bunch had walked inside the hunter's cabin Duncy cried, "Let's give the wee bears bread and milk. I'll feed them both, myself."

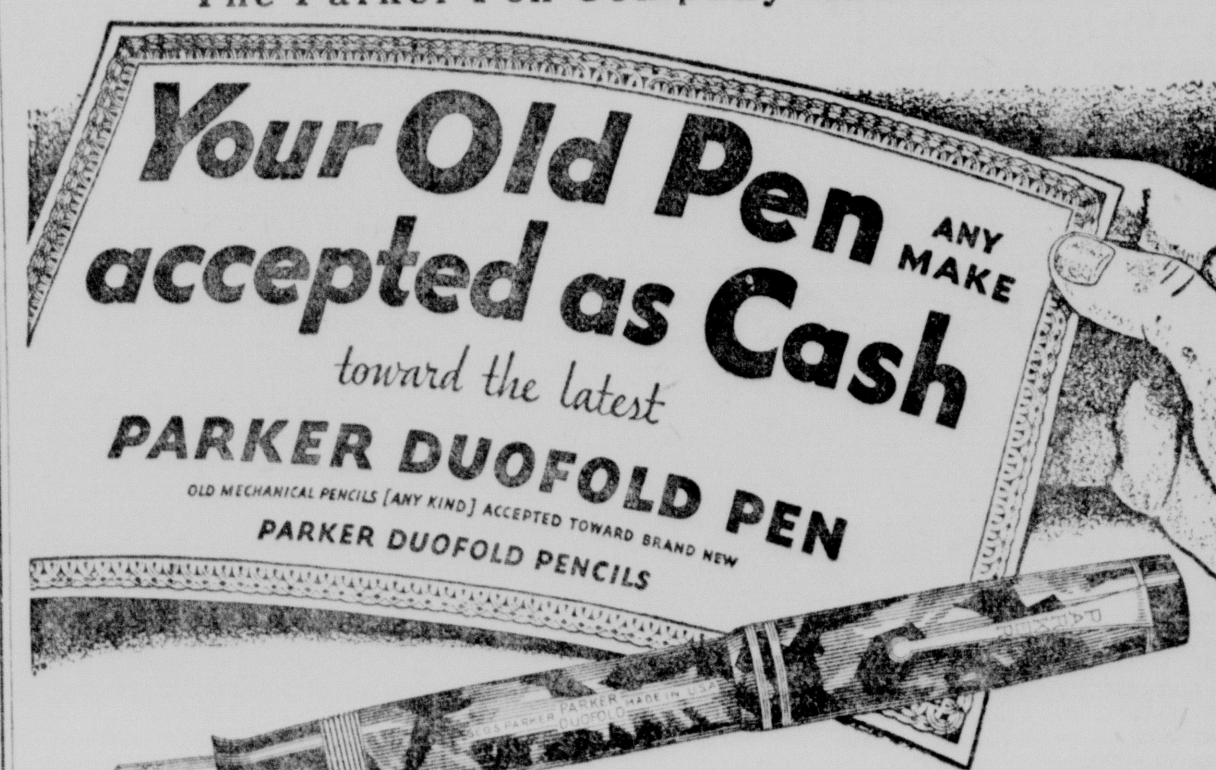

The hunter answered, with a grin. "Put napkins under each bear's chin and place them by the table. I'll get food down from the shelf."

Soon both the bears were eating fast. Said Duncy, "Hey, this will not last unless you go much slower. Do you want a tummy-ache?"

"I'm going to feed you with a spoon. You'll have your fill, cubs, pretty soon." Oh, my, what funny faces both the little bears could make.

(Duncy dresses the bears up in the next story.)

SHARPE-SHOOTERS FALL ASLEEP IN THE LAST QUARTER

Thereby Dropping Third Conference Game Last Evening

By DON HILLIKER

A repetition of the last half as played against Rock Falls cost Dixon high its third conference defeat last evening in the northside gym. Completely falling asleep in the last two quarters Dixon's cagers could add only three points while Belvidere was connecting for eleven. The final gave Belvidere, 18, Dixon, 16. In the second-striving contest Dixon won a 16-14 overtime decision. It was the second B team defeat handed out to Belvidere this season. Dixon goes to Polo tonight for a non-conference double header. It will be Dixon's first game in Polo since 1928.

The heavyweight game was close throughout a rough-and-tumble style being resorted to, especially in the closing minutes. Both teams were playing hard throughout, resulting in twenty-six personal fouls being recorded. Strong, and King, Hasselberg and Cunningham figured in two skirmishes which had lots of action but inflicted no physical damage to the participants.

Dixon should have won the game. Coming from behind the locals tied the count at 4-4 to end the first quarter. The second quarter, which period has become Dixon's big scoring stanza, saw Dixon push up to a 12-7 lead at halftime. Belvidere's score then was made on free tosses. Starting the second half Dixon took a longer rest than is the usual procedure and Belvidere, cracking three baskets from beyond the free throw line, took a 13-12 lead. The advantage increased to 17-13 at the quarter's end. Neither outfit could accomplish much in the scoring in the last period. The features of this final were the two arguments mentioned above.

Belvidere began the scoring on a free throw by Kiestler. Piel's pair of awarded tosses gave Belvidere a 3-0 lead. Bellows broke the ice for Dixon with a free throw. To make it 3-2 Underwood dropped in a free toss. Another free throw was raked up by King. Breaking the monotony of free tosses Henry scored on a pretty side shot and it was 4-4. Both crews were missing the hoop during the rest of the time and the quarter's score was a 4-4 tie.

The same Kiestler who originated the first period's scoring was the first to count in the next quarter, making a free throw. Following up the opening quarter's play Piel made good on two free shots and Belvidere was in front 7-4. A shot from the side by Henry was in for two points. Bellows caged a long shot to give Dixon its first lead, by an 8-7 count. A technical foul on Kiestler for stepping out of the center circle on the tip-off was capitalized on by Bellows, who made the free toss. E. Flanagan put Dixon on 10-7 to the good with his free throw. Connecting on a beautiful one-hander from the corner Flanagan gave two more points and Dixon a 12-7 lead. The score remained 12-7 when the ten-minute rest between halves arrived. In these opening periods Dixon took 32 shots from the field and scored four baskets. Belvidere failed to make a basket in 11 attempts.

Three minutes of the third quarter had elapsed before Belvidere could score a basket evidence of a nice defensive game by Dixon. Previous to the basket Belvidere scored on free tosses by Piel and Schult. The initial invader's basket was a short toss by Schrader. Apparently this was Belvidere's tonic as there followed in quick succession baskets by Piel, King and Schult. The latter three were dropped in from behind the free throw circle. Dixon scored on Strong's free toss to put the locals in arrears 17-13 at the end of the quarter.

Although the scoring was very slight in the last period there was plenty happening. The boys began to tire a little and were getting "jumpy". The fireworks went off when Strong straight-armed Schrader and then got into a tangle with King. A few minutes later Cunningham fouled Hasselberg and followed-through with a right which missed its mark. The officials ordered two personals ruled against Cunningham which gave him four and an exit from the game. King's free toss gave Belvidere its total of eighteen. Hasselberg and Strong added free tosses to make Dixon's final mark the short end of an 18-15 count.

Scoring was headed by Piel. This individual accounted for seven points on a basket and five out of eight free shots. Henry, Bellows and King had four each for second place.

Dixon, 16-Belvidere, 14. Dixon's more favorable end of the twinnbill came in the preliminary game. Dropping behind 6-4 at the quarter, Dixon was on the wrong end of a 10-7 count at the half. Dixon's seven points were totalled on Cinnamon's free throw Grove's gratis heave. Cinnamon's basket, Kennedy's free toss and Grove's basket.

Colman's basket opened the second half and Belvidere led 12-7. Cinnamon added a free toss followed by Newman's basket. Kline's side shot drifted through to give Dixon ten to Belvidere's fourteen at the quarter.

The lights found themselves then and stopped Belvidere cold holding them scoreless the last thirteen minutes of the game. A flurry of free throws when he was fouled on three consecutive plays gave Cinnamon the opportunity to

The pendulum has swung the other way at the University of Iowa. The school that was banned from the Big Ten on charges of proselytizing and subsidization now has reached the other extreme.

Petitions demanding the resignation of Rufus Fitzgerald and Prof. F. G. Higbee of the board of athletics have been circulated. Iowa, once zealous for the welfare of its athletes, now gives them only neglect.

Coach Ossie Solem, who went to Iowa from Drake last year, and stepped into a situation that seemed almost hopeless, is fighting now for "this men." The other day at a meeting of luncheon clubs at Cedar Rapids, he let go both barrels in defense of the men who played football for Iowa last fall.

Athletic Unemployment

"Of all the hundreds of employees at the university hospital, Memorial Union and dormitories, I have not been able to get one football player a job," says Solem. "I have fought for situations for our players, many of whom are now stranded and unable to continue in school without prospects of obtaining work that would provide them with board and room."

"I realize there will be a comeback from this talk, and perhaps it isn't my business to go around and criticize our own officials. But I'm doing it. You people own the university just as much as anyone else and I don't see why you are not entitled to the facts."

"In other schools big football players are doing the work that the little fellows are doing in Iowa City. All the rest of the Big Ten is laughing at us for not fighting for our own boys."

Ready to Fight

"Recently two of our basketball stars—Ivan Blackmer and Edward tie up the score and force the extra period. First the local center made two; then missed a pair; made one, missed one and finally succeeded in knotting it at 14-14 on his ninth gratis heave of the contest. With ten seconds to play Weir had a chance to win for Belvidere but missed his free throw.

Starting the overtime period Flanagan dribbled the length of the floor only to miss. A moment later Potts received the ball, passed to Cinnamon who returned the ball and Potts scored from close in to win the verdict, 16-14. Belvidere missed three free throws in this 3-minute period.

The scoring was headed by Cinnamon with a basket and six free tosses for eight points. Colman was next with six points.

Break—were ruled ineligible. What can the Big Ten do about this? If the Iowa board makes a ruling, now can the Big Ten be expected to overrule it? The Big Ten ruling that these two were ineligible seemed to me an invitation to apply for reinstatement.

"I want to commend the policies and action of Athletic Director E. H. Lauer. He is a much misunderstood man. During our recent predicament he was in there fighting for the boys and for us."

"Other Big Ten schools are getting away with plenty, without being questioned. Maybe we aren't fighting enough. We have been taking a spineless and backward attitude about everything."

Renews Interest

Iowa was in the football depths when Solem came to the scene last fall. The "old grads" apparently had forgotten about the university. Star high school athletes were migrating to greener grass in other parts of the country.

Solem revived the spirit of the school. His "On Iowa" drive caught like wildfire, bringing new hope for a winner to fans, athletes and alumni. The "old grads" became advertising men for the university. High school players again began to show an interest in Iowa.

The attitude of the board members, however, and the recent disbarment of Blackmer and Break checked the enthusiasm. Now the "old grads" are ready to fight again, with Iowa's athletes stranded in Iowa City facing the new semester without a chance for jobs.

Coach Solem is frank about the players' situation. He takes the stand that there is nothing wrong about passing out jobs provided the men are willing to work. It is being done throughout the rest of the Big Ten, and Solem is battling for the welfare of Iowa and "his boys."

RADICAL CHANGE IN GRID RULES IS CONSIDERED

Coaches' Rules Committee Meets Today To Get Proposals

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A new and radical proposal to benefit the offense was submitted for consideration at the first meeting of the rules committee of the American Football Coaches' Association here today.

On the eve of the coaches' gathering, the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials suggested that the team in possession of the ball be given five downs instead of four when either inside its own or the opposing 20 yard line.

The officials feel that the proposal not only would produce more scoring, but also would be a distinct aid to hard-pressed teams recovering the ball inside their own 20 yard line.

"With a touchdown in sight," Ed Thorp, prominent New York official explained, "each remaining yard becomes more and more difficult to gain. The defense automatically stiffens, becomes more compact and unyielding as the goal is approached, making it practically impossible to gain the required distance through running plays, when teams are anywhere near the goal line. This we feel can be corrected by giving the attacking side an extra play in each series of downs within this zone."

Although aimed specifically at aiding the offense, the proposal also would help teams pushed back into their own territory. A team holding the ball without its own 20 yard line, Thorp said, is so limited in its choice of plays that it often kicks on the second down and is practically forced to kick on the third down.

"If given an extra play in each series of downs while in the territory," Thorp continued, "we believe that it would tend to remove that restriction, thereby encouraging and justifying the starting of a march."

In addition to discussing this proposal, the coaches' rules committee, an advisory body will consider Pop Warner's suggestion that a point be scored for each first down; Dick Hanley's recommendation to allow forward passing from any point behind the scrimmage line; Tuss McLaughry's restricted dead ball zone; and a plan to remove the ball automatically from the side-lines without the necessity of wasting a down in running the ball outside.

The meeting specifically is for the purpose of instructing the coaches' delegates to the National Football Rules Committee which will convene next week. These delegates, Lou Little of Columbia, Noble Kizer of Duke and H. J. Jones of Southern California, sit with the national body only in an advisory capacity.

The national committee has indicated that no drastic revision in the playing code needs to be made at this time although some action may be taken to prevent indiscriminate forward passing.

ST. LOUIS—It's hard to believe, but Sam Golden, 43, found that he could not even give money away. Golden was hired by a theater to sell genuine silver dollars for 75 cents, as a means of advertising its feature picture. Gossip About Baseball Stars And Near Stars

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Charles (Red) Lucas, "work horse" of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff, has balked at a $3,000 slash in the salary of $14,500 which was paid last season. Lucas, who pitched more complete games than any hurler in the National League in 1932, said he would confer with the owner, Sidney Well soon.

The New York Giants continue the dizzy pace in signing players Freddy Fitzsimmons, bulky pitcher who had evidenced some dissatisfaction with the terms the club offered him, signed on the dotted line yesterday.

Pittsburgh's Pirates added Tony Piet, sensational young second baseman to their list of signed players.

Two players who figured in off-season trades signed with their new bosses. Mule Haas, bought along with Al Simmons and Jimmy Dykes from the Philadelphia Athletics, has agreed to White Sox terms. Gus Dugas, outfielder who figured in the three cornered Giant Pirate and Phillies trade has signed a Philly contract. He played with the Pirates last year.

The Red Sox announced receipt of the signed contract of Catcher Mervin Shea.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Flurging he can't get started too soon, Carl Boone, right handed pitcher signed by the White Sox last December, today was on his way west to begin training.

Boone, who showed exceptional promise while with Indianapolis of the American Association several years ago, suffered an arm injury and drifted out of sight. He got started again last season, was signed as a free agent and remained in Chicago long enough yesterday to get transportation money.

OHIO STATE TO MEET GOPHERS AT MINNEAPOLIS

Big Ten Leaders Play First Game On A Foreign Floor

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Ohio State's hustling basketball team leader of the Western Conference championship race, tonight will play its first Big Ten engagement on a foreign floor, meeting Minnesota at Minneapolis, in the reopening of the title schedule.

The Buckeyes, with three victories in a row, all won at home, will be favored over Minnesota which has not finished on top in any of its four Big Ten games, but rid of dissent which carried its early efforts, promises to provide a good test.

In addition to the championship battle, Northwestern will entertain the Little Giants from Wabash College, and Chicago, weak but willing, will tackle Notre Dame in the Maroon House.

Purdue, Wisconsin and Iowa won non-conference games last night but with a maximum of effort. The Big Ten trio showed the effects of the midsemester layoff and the battles were fierce. Purdue had to go overtime to conquer Indiana State Teachers, 38 to 32, and Wisconsin nipped Loyola, 28 to 25. The Badgers were superior from the field but almost fouled themselves into defeat. They committed 21 personal fouls, lost three men thereby and Loyola made 14 free throws out of 24 attempts.

Iowa staged a hot finish to defeat Creighton, 37 to 30, after the Blue Jays had stayed within four points most of the way.

CANZONERI PUT TOWNSEND OUT IN ONE MINUTE

Tony Is Now In Full Cry After Welterweight Leaders

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri was in full cry after the leaders of the welterweight pack today.

The doughty little champion of the lightweight, lacking opposition in his own division, made his debut as a welterweight contender in Madison Square Garden last night and knocked out Billy Townsend of Vancouver in barely a minute of fighting in the first round of a 10-round match.

The crowd of 12,000 barely had settled back after the introductions when Canzoneri stabbed Townsend across the ring with his fast left and then unleashed a volley of right hand punches. The last, landing high up on the temple, sent the Vancouver youngster to the canvas and he stayed there. Referee Patsy Haley counted ten. The finish came in one minute and five seconds. Townsend failed to land a single blow.

Although the sudden ending of the match brought a loud chorus of boos from the spectators ringside critics, including State Commissioner John J. Phelan, were convinced that the Canadian was the legitimate victim of three hard right hand punches.

Tony, who handed the rugged Billy Petrolle a bad beating in his last lightweight title defense, conceded eight and one-quarter pounds to Townsend. He scaled only 132½ pounds as compared with Townsend's 141.

In view of his decisive triumph over the Canadian, Canzoneri probably will be matched soon with Jimmy McLarnin, another and more formidable Vancouver glove-wielder. If he can get past McLarnin, Tony hopes to get a match for the 147-pound title with champion Jackie Fields.

COCHRAN WINS THREE-CUSHION BILLIARD TITLE

Gave Johnny Layton Of Missouri Complete Trimming Friday

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Welker Cochran, dark haired, shikishick-looking billiard star of San Francisco, today had a check for $3,000 tucked away in his wallet as a reward for winning the world's three-cushion billiard championship last night in his very first attempt to master the most difficult of all billiard games.

Cochran on the undisputed title by conquering red-haired Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., ten-time holder of the championship, 50 to 33 in 38 innings. Cochran swept through the tournament losing only one of the nine games. Layton will play J. R. Bozeman, Jr. of Vallejo, Cal. Monday in the playoff for second honors.

The brilliant San Francisco billiardist received $5,000, as first prize money plus $3,000 as 15 per cent of the gate receipts of the tournament. In addition he was presented with a $1,000 diamond medal, emblematic of the title.

Playing 25 Years
Cochran, born in Manson, Iowa, 37 years ago, has been playing billiards since he was 12 years old, when he first began handling the cue in his father's billiard establishment. He was known as a "boy wonder" and at the age of 16 was playing the masters of the game.

Cochran always has been a dangerous foe in 15.2 ballcue billiards and in 1929 won the title, defeating the German, Eric Hagelbacher for the championship, only to lose it the same year to young Jake Schaefer.

This, however, was his first try for three-cushion honors, and the way he took the master of the game, Layton, into camp last night left no doubt as to his ability. He played with a nerve of steel and the technique of a master. He beat Layton at his own game, that of playing it safely, and gave the Missouri one of his most disastrous defeats.

Stagg Will Coach
Pacific College
Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A. A. Stagg, Sr., retired University of Chicago football coach, announced today that he has accepted an offer of a position as head football coach at the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif.

Stagg, who was retired as Athletic Director and Coach under an automatic retirement rule at the age of 70, told of his decision to go to the Pacific coast after a long conference with Dr. Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific.

Despite his 70 years, Coach Stagg was exuberant today, declaring that he is starting a new career in a small college, with "ambition, enthusiasm and the will," which in Stagg's words should "be good for another 20 years."

"I'm going west and feel like I'm about 21 years old," Stagg said. "I'm ready to start another career and am as happy as can be."

The veteran coach, who has been in charge of University of Chicago athletics for 41 years, has been visibly depressed ever since last October when it was announced he would be retired under the university's 70-year retirement rule. But today, he acted like a college sophomore with his first varsity football letter.

Stagg's automatic retirement at Chicago is set for June 30 and he plans to wind up his affairs here as soon as possible after that and leave for the Pacific coast after a brief vacation. He will be on his new job for the first drills of the fall football season.

When Stagg's retirement was announced, the university offered him a newly created post as advisor of intercollegiate athletics, but he rejected it with the declaration that he wanted to remain active in the football coaching world.

In explanation of his choice of a small college instead of a larger university, Coach Stagg said: "I have had several offers from larger colleges and universities but I finally decided on the College of the Pacific because it is my desire to become affiliated with a small school where the spirit is splendid and where I can aid in the development of young Americans in a Christian way."

Dr. Knoles was as elated over Stagg's acceptance as the veteran coach himself. He left for the Pacific coast on a morning train.

MILLROSE GAMES BRING TOGETHER AMERICAN STARS

Few Foreigners Will Compete In Indoor Races Tonight

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A bit short of its usual array of foreign track field stars but "long" on outstanding American performers, the 26th annual Millrose games at Madison Square Garden tonight bring back the big-time indoor track season with all its old time glory.

The program of 24 events boasts only Erik Ny of Sweden, Olympic 1,500 meter runner, and Bert Pearson, sprinter from Toronto, to lend international flavor, but altogether there are 17 Olympic athletes at least one for every invitation event, and a whole flock of national and college champions. An even dozen relay races are scattered through the program, bringing out teams from most of the leading eastern colleges and Ohio State and Michigan Normal from the mid west.

The Wanamaker mile, with Gene Venke, world record holder seeing to gain permanent possession of the trophy against a field which includes Ny, Ray Conger, the Northfield Minn. school teacher who has won the event three times; Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, the first American in the Olympic 1,500 meters; and Leo Lermond of Boston is the high spot of the big program.

Close behind is the other traditional event which will be contested on a yardage basis, the Millrose 600. A picked field of four will run: Arnold Adams of Bates, Bernie McCafferty, Karl Warner and Milton Sandier.

ILLINOIS MAN TAKES DELIGHT WITH SKELETONS

Dr. Don Dickson of Lewistown, Ill. Studies "First Americans"

Lewistown, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—On a hill overlooking the valley of the Illinois river, there's a lively gentleman, with a scientific trend of mind, who is spending most of his life in a grave—and likes it.

His superstitious, such as came to light when scientists were unearthing the relics and bones of Tut-Ankh-Amen from a dim historical past of ancient Egypt, he knows nothing and cares less. He sees in the skeletons that surround him the story of a beautiful past—America's first inhabitants.

He is Dr. Don F. Dickson, who grew up among the bones of a prehistoric people, proprietor of what archaeologists and anthropologists alike describe as one of the most interesting of the thousands of burial mounds that dot the middle-west. This is because the bodies of these people, uncovered in the Dickson mound do not seem to have the characteristic high cheek bone of the American Indian, a fact which has led to considerable speculation as to the origin of these "First Americans" and the probable time they wandered over the Illinois river valley.

Estimate Age
Some investigators have said their activities go back for from 2,000 to 5,000 years. Others believe 1,000 years is a better estimate.

The story of Dr. Dickson's high regard for the bones of his skeletons goes back for thirty-three years. Let him tell it.

"Thirty-three years ago" he said, "my father bought a little tract of land for a home site. The site selected was on a high hill. In working over the hill he found bones. When post holes were dug, or when the hill was plowed, skeletons were uncovered. The result was the collection of relics.

"Every year I saw skeletons unearthed and every night I slept in a room with bones and thousands of relics. I grew up with all that was left of a group of prehistoric people and soon learned that to look in their grave we saw some more than the material."

"When our present excavation work was started about six years ago, many of my friends thought that spending a life in a 'grave' would be a very gruesome existence. But if you will walk down there with me you learn the story of the dramatic story the relics and skeletons tell—the story of a success and failure, love and disappointment, of loyalty, treachery and of lives filled with romance and tragedy."

Has 230 Skeletons
To date 230 skeletons have been uncovered. Investigators believe there are 2,000 more in the hill. Those dug up have been covered with a building to shelter them from the elements. Some scientists said they could not be exposed to the air without disintegrating entirely, but Dr. Dickson overcame the problem by treating them with certain chemicals.

Dr. Dickson spends most of his time in the grave. The skeletons, lying in exactly the same position in which they were uncovered, have to be kept clean of dust, in addition their owner is always looking around them for something and that something is any evidence that might cast further light on the story of America's forgotten men.

The Swing
A swing's the finest thing I know
It plays the nicest high and low
And when I'm up close to the sky
I see the clouds go whisking by
But when I'm down close to the street
I just swing slow, and rest my feet.

Good
This morning after I got up
I put on all my clothes,
And got myself all washed and dressed
Before my Mother rose.

I drank up all my orange juice
And ate up all my toast
And thought that if I didn't stop
I'd be too good, almost.

But Daddy was so happy
And Mother was so glad,
I think that being good
Was quite the nicest time I've had.

Cyclones
Sometimes I feel like bursting
And flying all about,
And rushing here and rushing there
Until I'm tired out.

It's when I'm feeling that way
That I get put to bed.
My Mother says I'll bring the house
In ruins round her head.

It really isn't I that makes me
Misbehave that way.
It's something else inside, that
Simply loves to disobey.

The little clock beside my bed
Says, "Eight o'clock you sleepy head,
The sun long since has dried the faces
Of buttercups and Queen Anne's laces."

The great clock booming in the hall
Says, "Breakfast now or not at all,
Before you come to take your place
Be sure to wash your hands and face."

ILLINOIS:
By The Associated Press

Chicago—Attempts of persons interested in the trial of three men on charges of holding up and wounding a policeman to bribe two of his assistants were revealed by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. He said Ross Lee Laird and Leonard Steiger, deputies, had been offered $1,000 in anonymous telephone calls to "go easy." The three defendants were convicted.

Chicago—Windows in the vicinity were shattered as a bomb exploded in front of the Piser funeral chapel, causing several hundred dollars damage to the building, police said. Officials asserted they were inclined to blame trouble between funeral directors and funeral automobile drivers for the explosion.

Washington—Appointment of "lame duck" Representative William P. Holdaway, Republican, of Danville, Ill., as Commissioner for the District of Columbia was urged by Washington business men and Illinois politicians. Holdaway has served five terms on the House District of Columbia committee and his appointment, if made, would follow the inauguration.

Ottawa—In a garage with doors bolted on the inside and wired shut on the outside the body of Edward P. Tunnel, 37-year-old Marquette insurance agent was found in his car. The ignition was turned on and the gas tank was empty. Officials said gasoline gas caused death.

Chicago—A Republican won an appointment from a Democratic office holder. He was Thomas Dodd Healy, named to the staff of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. Healy, as Assistant Federal District Attorney, successfully prosecuted the H. O. Stone stock conspiracy case.

FORMER DIXON MAN HONORED FOR HIS WORK

Attainments Of Dr. C. E. Decker Are Given Recognition

The Oklahoma Daily of Feb. 1, contained the following concerning Dr. C. E. Decker, former Dixonite and brother of Mrs. Joseph Bessie and Misses Ada and Bessie Decker of this city:

In recognition of their services to the university, the state and the geology profession, Dr. C. E. Decker, professor of paleontology, Charles N. Gould, founder of the school of geology and the Oklahoma geological survey, will be commended for their work and contributions to an acknowledgment program to be held next Wednesday in the Union Ball room, according to Dr. V. E. Monnett, director of the schools of geology and geological engineering.

Two almost life-sized portraits of Decker and Gould will be formally presented to the university during the program and later will be placed in the departmental library in the Geology building. The portraits, recently completed, were painted by Patricia Gimeno, professor of Spanish, who is the painter of several outstanding pictures in the university.

The program, which will be open to the public, will be presented in the Union Ballroom under the auspices of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honorary geology fraternity, which has selected for this year's project the subject of promoting recognition of the two geologists.

The program also will consist of five-minute talks by prominent geologists. Dr. Irving Perrine, consulting geologist of Oklahoma City will preside.

Gould active in geological circles in the southwestern part of the United States during the last 25 years, founded the university school of geology in 1901 and the Oklahoma geological survey in 1908. Since the survey was suspended by legislative action in 1931 has been a consulting geologist in Norman.

Decker, contributor of numerous scientific treatises in the field of paleontology, came to the university in 1916. From 1918 to 1924 he served as national secretary of the Sigma Gamma Epsilon and from 1924 until 1932 held the office of president. In 1926 he was secretary of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, one of the largest geological orders in the world.

Recently after serving as a member of the National organization, Decker was placed on a committee of the National Research council to study the Silurian area in Oklahoma and adjoining states.

Not holding on to your money, are you?" Jappy remarked. "Well, when a girl has only one beau she has to have a lot of clothes. Give her four or five to take her places and one dress will serve nicely."

"Are you referring to Dick Stanley?"

"Of course. What's he doing now?"

Sheila laughed. Dick was writing a play. He was very serious about it but Sheila had had seen a dozen aspiring young authors give up in despair before the second act was finished, who knew how many plays were locked away in safes in producers' offices—never to be produced—could not show much interest in Dick's efforts. She was not even excited when he told her that the title of the new piece was "Red Geraniums" and that she was to play the lead in it.

"Oh, he seems to be keeping busy," she told Jappy. "He's trying to write another play."

As usual the argument came to nothing. Later, however, dancing with Dick, matching her careful, graceful steps to his, Sheila wondered if perhaps she wasn't falling in love with him—at least a little. His serge-covered arm enclosed her. His soft voice murmured the words of the dance tune—the season's love song—in her ears. His eyes caressed her whenever her glance met his. Their steps matched beautifully.

"Blind Timmy wrote that song. Did you know that, Sheila?" Dick asked as they resumed their seats.

"Blind Timmy?"

"Yes, he wrote it last year. Had to sell it outright because he needed the money and I understand he didn't get much for it. Now the publisher is cleaning up on it in a big way."

"There, Dick! That's just what I've been telling you," Sheila said. "That sort of thing is considered fair enough on Broadway. It wouldn't be any where else. That's Broadway for you!"

They danced again, Dick humming the words of the tender little love song dreamily. Sheila was dreaming, too. She thought of a time to come when she would be mistress of her own home far from Broadway. She would see to it that Blind Timmy should end his days in peace and security.

Four days later Sheila packed to depart for the road tour. This time she went as a featured principal. She was not a star, although there was little difference except in her salary and the billing. Announcements read, "Fine Feathers with Sheila Shayne" instead of "Sheila Shayne in Fine Feathers."

She had six specialty numbers in the new show and liked them all. The chorus was clever and attractive. Skillful dancers were plentiful on Broadway that year and easily selected.

"Don't be upstage with the girls now, will you?" Jappy cautioned Sheila, as she folded underthings, slid trees into slippers, and folded skirts.

"Of course not. My memory is too good."

"So is your heart, honey," Jappy paused. "I wish," she said, "it could be a little kinder toward Dick Stanley."

Sheila wanted to ask about Jerry Wyman. Was Sheila's eagerness to return to the road because it might mean an opportunity to see Jerry again? The show would play in Jerry's home town, Jappy knew. She had looked up the routing. She wished somehow that she could say just the right thing to her friend. Desperately she tried.

"You aren't keeping a little corner in that heart for Jerry, are you?" she said, trying to keep her voice casual.

"Maybe it was his sister, Jappy."

"If you see him in Spencer are you going to be friends again? You know—talk to him, have dinner with him?"

"I might."

That was all that was said but in her heart Sheila knew she longed to see Jerry. Somehow she would find a way to bring about a meeting.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer, is discharged from a new play because MARIAN RANDOLPH, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home and a little town far from Broadway.

The company departs on the tour and in a little western city Sheila meets JERRY WYMAN. He seems to be a hard working young man with little money. Sheila is not aware that Jerry's father owns the factory where he works. Jerry is attracted and Sheila falls in love with him. After she leaves, however, Jerry's affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and this makes Sheila unhappy.

Back in New York again, she gets a job in a night club. Weeks pass and then one night while dancing she sees Jerry sitting at her but does not introduce her to the others in his party. She tells Sheila he has tried to call her. She does not believe this and refuses to make an engagement with him.

Sheila goes to room at the home of the famous sisters who are also on the stage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXX
SHEILA'S engagement to dance at Club Volens came to an end and again she went job hunting. This time the situation was more promising.

"How'd you like a part in 'Sky High,' my new show?" Craig Abbott asked her.

Sheila didn't think she wanted it. She asked Johnny Harrell, an agent, to try to find her a job in a traveling company.

He purred his lips and looked at her over the tops of his spectacles. "When you can land a place in a Broadway show why do you want to do a thing like that?" he asked. "The streets are full of men and women who would jump at the chance to get a part in 'Sky High.'"

"Maybe, just the same I don't want it."

"Need any money?"

"No. If I did I'd take a job I didn't like."

Jappy was dancing in a vaudeville act playing "the subway circuit"—theaters not far from Manhattan which could be reached by riding the subway. In her free time the two girls went shopping together.

"Not holding on to your money, are you?" Jappy remarked. "Well, when a girl has only one beau she has to have a lot of clothes. Give her four or five to take her places and one dress will serve nicely."

"Are you referring to Dick Stanley?"

"Of course. What's he doing now?"

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By GERALD MILLER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Political dopesters—those self-anointed "insiders" who insist on remaining anonymous—are now "appointing" Mayor A. J. Cermak of Chicago, the next Minister to Czechoslovakia, his native land.

They put it in this fashion: Mayor Cermak, who left Czechoslovakia as a peasant lad, has risen to the eminence of Mayor of the nation's second largest city and potent cog in the country's dominating political party. Since he is very wealthy, and since no more important political office lies within his immediate reach, what would prevent his returning to his native land as minister from the world's richest republic?

He has, these dopesters say, expressed his willingness to accept such an appointment.

America's youngest Civil War veteran lies helplessly ill in St. Mary's hospital at Streator, Ill.

Rep. John T. Buckbee, Republican of Rockford, Ill., made that announcement when he asserted that he was making every effort to get the pension of Lyndon D. Howe increased from $75 to $100 a month, because of the veteran's total disability.

Howe, the father of Dr. L. D. Howe, Jr., Streator, was born August 27, 1850. He enlisted in Co. B, the 55th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, at the age of ten years and eleven months, but was discharged because he could not endure the fatigue of marching.

Dissatisfied at his discharge, Howe immediately reenlisted in Co. I, the 15th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, in which he served until the end of the war. Rep. Buckbee said the chances were excellent to increase Howe's pension.

Short bits about Illinois folk:

The secretary to Senator Olin P. Glenn of Illinois is Miss Frances Nevins, who once served Ex-Gov. Louis L. Emmerson in that same capacity when he was Secretary of State.

And she says of her former boss: "He was the hardest working man I ever knew. He kept at his desk until all hours of the night, attending to details which most men let assistants care for."

Senator elect William H. Dieterich of Beardstown is the only Illinois member of Congress who

Confesses Killing Little Girl

wears a cutaway coat.

He is blunt and straight to the point, and generally fools his quizzers by blurring out the truth immediately.

Rep. William Ed Hull, the retiring Republican of Peoria, has the largest working staff in his office of any Congressman from Illinois.

He takes more pride in a bit of beer legislation than he does in an invitation to dine with the President.

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, Democrat of Chicago, rarely ever arranges in advance (as others do) to make a speech on legislation in which he is interested.

He relies on his ability to take advantage of parliamentary loopholes, and pops up at the most unexpected moments to do his talking.

Sabath is one of Illinois' two foreign-born Congressmen. He is a native of Czechoslovakia. Rep. Leonard William Schuetz, Democrat, of Chicago is the other. He was born in Posen, Germany, now a part of Poland.

Agriculture Department
It has recently been decided to hold a poultry show in conjunction with the coming corn show, February 24th and 25th. It is believed that a show of this type will meet with a good deal of community interest and will be very interesting and educational in nature. Ribbons will be given for the first, second and third prize winning birds in each class, as well as for the champion and grand champion birds.

In addition, an entry fee of 50¢ per bird entered will be charged and the receipts from this source will be returned in the form of cash prizes. Individual prizes consisting of merchandise will also be solicited from the local merchants. This show is open to any person living in this community and we sincerely hope that a large entry will be made as we are anxious to make our first show a success. If the show meets with popular approval it more than likely will become an annual affair.

The birds will be shown in four separate classes, namely: Banded Plymouth Rocks, White Plymouth Rocks, Buff Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, Buff Orpingtons, Black Minorcas, White Minorcas or any other breed. Prizes will not be given, however, unless there are at least two entries in each breed, owned by different persons.

Seek Clew to Torch Killing at Historic "Spook Rock"

By this boulder—known as "Spook Rock" from Indian legend—on an isolated country road between Spring Valley and Suffern, N. Y., the body of a woman—almost indistinguishable after being burned—was found by a farmer who was attracted by smoke rising over the top of the boulder. Search is under way for two men who were seen near the scene. Police and detectives are searching the scene for some means of identifying the body.

This year's course in manual arts is a definite step toward fitting a high school subject to a practical, present need. With conditions changing as they are now, people should know how to do things about the home and farm themselves, as they cannot afford to hire specialists for each task.

Our course attempts to teach boys the art of handling tools with skill, the art of assembling a large variety of useful projects and the art of accuracy in following directions, drawings, or planning their own projects. At present two of the boys are completing a laboratory table for the school at a cost of $9.20. The same table bought from a supply house would have cost the school from $28 to $35.

Parents and patrons of the school are invited to see the type of work the manual arts department has at the school exhibit, February 24 and 25.

The Dramatic club held its regular meeting Wednesday. The election of officers for the following semester took place. Lida Yocum was elected president and Helen Yocum secretary and treasurer.

As a money-making project for contest number, the Dramatic club will have a bake sale on Saturday, February 4th in the L. N. U. office. Money must be secured immediately to buy material for those who are entering the contest.

TREATING RINGWORM

Trichophyton, which promises to be of service in both the diagnosis and treatment of stubborn and aggravated cases of ringworm, is essentially a vaccine made of fungi, i. e., the ringworm parasites.

It is known that in addition to the localized disturbances in the skin, hair and finger nails which may be caused by the ringworm parasites, other lesions may develop in remote parts of the body.

These lesions are considered to be due to substances elaborated by the ringworm parasites and carried to remote parts of the body in the blood stream.

The lesions may be eczematous in nature, urticarial or like hives, and these may cause disturbances in the upper respiratory tract and in the bronchi.

In the more serious forms of ringworm diseases, the remote lesions, rather than the original foci of infection, are the more troublesome.

It is possible to a degree to determine whether these remote lesions are due to the effects of ringworm infection by employing trichophyton as a test.

In this test minute quantities of trichophyton are injected under the skin, and in the sensitive person produce characteristic inflammatory reactions.

No local individuals who have had no prior contact with the fungi of ringworm do not produce the characteristic reactions.

More recently attempts have been made to employ trichophyton as a means for the treatment of ringworm disease, not for the destruction of the original foci of infection, but for the desensitization of the patient, for it is the sensitization of the patient which makes possible the secondary and at times more troublesome disturbances.

This treatment is still in its experimental stage, and is not a routine method for the treatment of ringworm. However, already it has given desirable results in a number of cases studied.

SHE STOPPED HER PAPER . . .

A woman in Dixon stopped her Evening Telegraph—thought she couldn't afford it.

But she found the opposite was true—she couldn't afford to be without it.

She discovered she had been saving much more than the price of the paper by taking advantage of the bargains offered by advertisers.

So she notified her carrier to bring the paper again.

The "business news" in The Evening Telegraph is of just as much importance as the general news or the features.
